Affordable Housing Project Dropped

By Frank Messina

A once controversial 139-unit affordable housing project in Ballardvale will be abandoned, a Ballard View Realty Trust owner confirmed yesterday.

In addition to dropping an appeal for 139 condominiums, co-owner Steven Feinberg said his town-approved comprehensive permit for 50 units is also "a dead issue. The condominium market is in a depressed state now. The conditions are not right at this time to build."

With a March 7 state hearing approaching, attorney Neil Glick said he told town hall and the state Housing Appeals Committee last week that his clients are dropping the appeal.

Last month, Town Counsel Robert Zollner told Glick he wouldn't agree to any further postponements. "The hearing had been delayed long enough," said Zollner. "I wan't going to give them another continuance."

Although the Ballard View project still holds a comprehensive permit to build 50 units—14 designated as affordable housing—a soft condominium market and shriveling state funding sources had town officials doubtful if any scale subdivision is possible.

Feinberg indicated he will simply let the permit expire.

The local attorney said he and co-owner James Feinberg will mull

Valley-Boston Route License

By Frank Messina

Staving off a potential war for commuter business, Merrimac Transportation has sold their Merrimack Valley-to-Boston route license to Trombly Commuter Lines Inc.

Trombly Commuter of Dracut will begin operations Feb. 27 on the schedule currently used by Merrimac, pending state approval of the transfer. Rates will also hold steady.

A Department of Public Utilities spokesman said the application is being expedited but couldn't predict when the license would be approved. Owner James F. Trombly called the process routine and added that he doesn't anticipate any problem gaining DPU approval.

Although Trombly declined to name an exact figure, he said the sale price is "somewhere between $50,000 and $100,000."

The two bus lines were on a collision course, heading toward direct competition for riders on a route unable to support one company the past five years.

Concerned with Merrimac plans to cut back service, the Massachu-

Honored For State Service

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis recently granted Jean Dyer, Peter Flynn and John B. Guarino of Northern Essex Community College Massachusetts Pride in Performance awards.

The awards are presented annually in recognition of exemplary service to the Commonwealth to selected employees with at least two years of service. The recipients must also be in positions which the Governor either directly appointed or formally approved.

Dyer, coordinator of Northern Essex's Health Education Support Center, was awarded the citation for her accomplishments in developing the center into a laboratory setting. The health center assists health program students in upgrading their necessary clinical practice skills.

Northern Essex President John R. Dimitry said, "Jean has developed the Health Education Support Center into a valuable educational resource for all students enrolled in health care programs at Northern Essex."

Dyer, a resident of Andover, earned her bachelor's degree at Adelphi University and master's degree at the University of Rochester.

Flynn, an associate behavioral sciences professor and chairperson of the behavioral sciences department, was recognized for his proven excellence and creativity in and out of the classroom.

Florist Awarded Top Prize

Mary C. Cox of Andover, co-owner of Imagine That Florist, 26 Chestnut St., Andover, participated in F.T.D. District 1-G&H Design Competition held Jan. 15 at the Natick Hilton.

Participants were required to compete in three categories: bridal bouquet, theme arrangement and a surprise category. Originality, design ability and presentation governed the scoring.

Cox's wedding bouquet presented an original design and bridal holder enabling the bride to carry her bouquet mid-arm or in a relaxed fashion over her wrist.

Jim Durio, president of F.T.D., presented her with first prize for highest overall scoring. Cox will compete in Boxboro in April against the regional winners from New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Dorothy M. Winn

Good nutrition is important at any age, yet many older people are not well nourished for a number of reasons. Malnutrition can cause confusion, lack of energy and delusional behavior in older people, which can be confused for other more serious illness. Many medications do not work properly on an empty stomach or do not absorb properly if you are not eating a balanced diet.

The Town of Andover, through its Council on Aging, sponsors a number of programs for older people which can help provide adequate nutrition. Congregate meals are available Monday through Friday at 12 noon at the senior center. All meals are prepared there and provide one third of the minimum daily dietary requirements set by the federal government. This program is available to all Andover residents aged 60 or older. The cost is only 50 cents. Reservations for lunch must be made by 4 p.m. on the business day preceding the lunch you plan to attend.

Andover does not serve congregate meals during school vacation weeks as other towns do. The reason for this break is that the Andover program is funded through the State Department of Education Nutrition Division not the Federal Older Americans Act monies as programs in most surronding communities are. In other programs the cost of the meal is $1 to $1.25 and many programs charge extra for coffee. The 50 cents fee for the Andover senior citizens lunch program is set by state statute. This fee has been in effect since the early 1970s and may increase later this year. As with all Andover Council on Aging programs, no one will be denied service for an inability to pay. Andover residents in need of services who are experiencing financial difficulties should contact Council on Aging Director Dorothy Winn for assistance.

Meals on Wheels are available to Andover residents at a cost of $2 for weekday meals and $3 for weekend and holiday meals. Home delivered meals are available to residents aged 60 and older who are unable to prepare meals due to advanced age or illness or are unable to attend the lunch program at the senior center. A home visit to assess the home situation and a doctor's note are required. For further information on this program, call 470-3830.

Does the new Catastrophic Health Insurance program have you confused? Do you know the difference between Medgap Insurance and Medex? What is a copayment? A deductible? What is the best health insurance option for you? The answers to these and other questions will be available at the second annual health insurance information fair at the senior center on Wednesday, March 1.

A new widows and widowers support group will begin at the senior center Thursday, March 2, at 3 p.m. and meet every Thursday. Mary Wesson, one of the original leaders of the Merrimack College widows group, will be the leader.

A Parkinson's disease support group, open to victims and family members of people who suffer from Parkinson's disease, will begin Monday, March 6 at 1 p.m. at the senior center. Speakers, information and support will be offered the first Monday of every month.

The senior center begins an armchair travels series Monday, Feb. 27, at 1 p.m. Roy Luca will share slides of some of his favorite spots in Europe.

A few tickets remain for the annual Council on Aging trip to the Massachusetts Horticultural Society Flower Show at the Bayside Exposition Center. Enjoy luncheon at the Kernwood in Lynnfield, admission to the flower show and deluxe coach transportation for only $30.

Andover residents aged 60 and older are eligible to receive five pounds of flour and one pound of butter on Monday, March 20, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the senior center. Registration deadline is Feb. 28. Call 470-3830 to register.

Resident Directs Academy Production

The Phillips Academy drama lab student production of Andrew Lloyd Webber's Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat was presented last weekend. Andover resident and 11th grade student, Robin Hessman, a veteran of many dramatic productions, including this year Butterflies are Free and As You Like It, made her directing debut with Kate Spencer from Greenwich, Conn.

They cast many alumni from Andover Community Theater and Andover Children's Theater productions. As Joseph's brothers were Joshua Russo, Jessica Hill, Christian Parker, Diana Zipeto with Alyssa Sullivan and Amy Zimmerman in other roles and narrator. Andover residents as "brothers" also included Joe Gillam, Rob Kaplowitz and Sandy Miller. "Joseph" was performed by Ted Lahan of Atkinson, N.H. A student 10-piece band provided the musical background.

Business Center 'Topped Off'

National Development Associates, Inc. (NDAI) has completed steel erection and topped off Twenty New England Business Center, a 65,000-square-foot building 100 percent pre-leased to Physical Sciences, Inc. (PSI). Building Twenty is the second of five facilities that will comprise the 500,000 square-foot, first-class office park in Andover.

Assistant Vice President Michael Price, project manager for the park, states development of the project is on target. "The park is really coming together nicely. The steel has gone up rapidly on ten and twenty and the buildings are meshing well with the spectacular environment. The final product will be an attractive option for companies looking for a site near Boston that provides employees with a wide range of amenities."

PSI, a high tech firm specializing in laser research currently located in Andover, pre-leased building Twenty due to the steady growth the market has experienced and the amenities the park will provide. Dr. Robert Weiss, chairman of PSI, worked closely with NDAI to consumate the agreement. "We look forward to knowing we'll be in such a fine environment for the next ten years. The fact that day care will be provided for our employees was a significant factor in our decision. New England Business Center is a first-class park and we intend to lease additional space there as we grow."

PSI's sophisticated building requirements were also an important consideration in choosing to work with NDAI. "It was a pleasure working with National Development. They permitted us to assist in designing our building from the ground up to meet our specific needs and in our business that's critical."

Other amenities in addition to day care provided by Bright Horizons Children's Center will include concierge service and showers and locker rooms for running enthusiastics choosing to jog along the Merrimack River. NDAI is also finalizing plans for a cafe on the site to be operated by Creative Gourmets. The adjacent Andover Marriott Hotel will provide guest accommodations, restaurants, conference and additional fitness facilities.

On a picturesque site along the Merrimack River in the northeast quadrant of River Road and Route 93, New England Business Center is conveniently located one exit north of Interstate 495, 15 minutes from Routes 128 and 3 and 25 minutes from Boston.

National Development Associates is a full-service development firm based in Newton. The company provides full construction services through its wholly owned subsidiary Cranshaw Construction as well as property management services. NDAI has extensive experience in office, industrial, retail and residential projects and is developing major mixed-use parks in Franklin, Bellingham, Bridgewater, Mansfield and Tewksbury. New England Business Center is a joint venture with CIGNA Investments, Inc.

College Turns Away 903

The recent budget reversions have caused a decrease in day enrollment at Northern Essex Community College, according to a report presented to the college's board of trustees at its recent meeting.

Although the decrease was 3.4 percent, less than the 10 percent which college administrators had originally predicted, 903 students who wanted to enroll in courses were refused admission.

"Because the budget reversions forced us to cut 40 sections of classes, over 900 students were denied educational services," said John R. Dimitry, president of Northern Essex. "The saddest part of this is that half of the students that were turned away were economically disadvantaged minorities from our Lawrence campus."

While day division enrollments decreased from 3,505 students in February of last year to 3,385 at the same date this year, evening division enrollments at the college experienced a 13 percent increase in enrollment. This was because many students who were denied admissions to day division courses enrolled in evening division courses which are not state funded and, consequently, more expensive, according to Dimitry.

Evening division enrollments increased from 3,501 as of Feb. 1 last year to 3,961 on the same date this year and are continuing to increase since students are still registering for credit and non-credit courses beginning later in the semester.

"Many of the students who were turned away from our day division classes are the working poor of the Merrimack Valley who are trying to create a better life for themselves and their families," Dimitry said. "I think that it's a crime that we are preventing them from getting the quality, affordable education that they so badly need and deserve."

Because of the state's fiscal crisis, the college was required to return 3 percent of its budget to the state in December, resulting in the elimination of 40 class sections and other budget cutting measures.

Panels Review UF Allocation Requests

Priority.

That will be the key when Merrimack Valley United Fund budget committee panels begin hearings to determine the annual allocation of funds to the 64 United Fund member agencies.

The allocation of funds will be determined by the 46-member committee, representative of all walks of life in the valley and southern New Hampshire. Funds will be distributed based on need and availability, and emphasis will be placed on strengthening agency independence so that United Fund monies can be dispersed throughout the community where the needs are the greatest.

Panel members will review presentations of representatives of member agencies outlining their agencies' 1989 budget requests and seek an overview of their current objectives and programs in order to prioritize financial needs.

Eighteen panel member hearings are being held at the United Fund building. Members are assigned agencies from one of the three agency categories: casework, character building or health.

Upon completion of the hearings in early February, summary sessions will be held in each category and recommendations presented to the respective category vice chairmen for consideration.

1988 was the best year ever for Raytheon.

We had record sales of $8.2 billion. Record earnings of $489.6 million. And a record return on equity of 25.1%.

It's a performance we were proud to report to more than 24,000 Raytheon stockholders. And one that's a tribute to nearly 31,000 Raytheon employees in the Bay State. Because 44% of our total sales come from operations right here in Massachusetts.

Our record year also benefits Raytheon's plant communities and others throughout the Commonwealth. It translates into:

$1.2 billion in total payroll.

$7 million in local property taxes.

$525 million of goods and services purchased from local suppliers.

We're happy to be making these economic contributions to Massachusetts. Because this state has provided the environment that has helped Raytheon grow and prosper for 67 years.

We've always believed that quality starts with fundamentals. And nothing could be more fundamental to our success than the skills and dedication of our Bay State employees and the support of our plant communities.

casework agencies. Paul E. Dillberg, test supervisor for the micro-electronics division at Analog Devices in Wilmington, and Donald E. Morgan, human resources manager for Freudenberg Nonwovens LTD (Pellon) in Lowell, will serve as vice chairmen for the character building agencies. Keith Krebs, a CPA for Topham, Fardy & Co. in Andover, and Anna L. Savinelli, vice president of the mortgage department at Lawrence Savings Bank, will act as vice chairmen for the health agencies.

The vice chairmen's recommendations will be presented to George D. Deneault, 1988-89 budget committee chairman. He works at the quality assurance department at Raytheon Co. in South Lowell. Final decisions rest with the United Fund board of directors.

It is the policy of the budget committee, however, to abide by the initial member panels' recommendations. The availability of funds at that time will dictate whether or not the recommendation can be implemented. If additional campaign funds are raised after the fundraising drive is completed, supplemental allocations to agencies will be awarded based on the initial panel's recommendation.

Deneault outlined the panel member responsibilities and format for the agency budget presentations and budget committee policies at an orientation session. He also cited the importance of panel members visiting the member agencies thay are assigned to review prior to the scheduled hearing.

"The site visit will provide a firsthand opportunity for panel volunteers to see the agency in operation, learn about the programs offered, the philosophy of the agency and the commitment of the staff and their board," Deneault said.

The Merrimack Valley United Fund is the single most important private, non-profit organization to provide human services in the Merrimack Valley and southern New Hampshire. Last year, 198,620 individuals received character building, counseling and health services through the 64-member agencies the United Fund supports.

Utility Firm Leases Space

Cabot, Cabot & Forbes, a national real estate development, management and investment firm headquartered in Boston, has announced that EUA/Cogenex, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Eastern Utilities, has leased 5,000 square feet of space on the second floor of One Corporate Drive in CC&F's Andover Corporate Center. Project Manager Michael B. Wilcox handled the negotiations on behalf of CC&F and broker Jack Burns of the Leggat Company represented the client in the transaction working with Kathy Stearns, general manager of EUA/Cogenex.

EUA/Cogenex was recently acquired as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Eastern Utilities Associates, the parent company of EUA Systems which is engaged in the generation, transmission, distribution and sale of electricity to several hundred thousand users in the Northeast. EUA-/Cogenex is an energy management and cogeneration company and assumes the financial and engineering responsibilities of achieving energy efficiency in buildings. Their client list includes Boston Edison, Mass. Electric, MIT, the State of Rhode Island, Coca Cola and T.J. Maxx.

The firm needed to relocate to a larger, more modern facility, but wanted to maintain its presence in the Lawrence/Andover area. One Corporate Drive met the space requirements and provided ample amenities to satisfy the firm's employees.

One Corporate Drive's tenant roster includes New England Telephone, Samsung Software America, Inc. and Geraghty and Miller. The building is currently 75 percent leased. Cabot, Cabot & Forbes has begun construction on a second building in Andover Corporate Center. Five Corporate Drive is expected to be ready for occupancy by September.

AHS Works On School Store

By Kristen Alberich and Brad Reghitto

Andover High School may be getting a store of its very own.

The superintendent of schools and high school administrators and faculty have been drawing up plans for a school store. "We think we have everything ready to go," said Principal Wilbur Hixon.

Fred Baker and his mechanical drawing classes drew up the blueprints, and students have expressed enthusiasm for the idea. According to a survey, 535 students were in favor of a store and only 37 were against it.

"My feeling was that I wanted substantial proof that the students wanted it," Hixon said. Now that there is proof, steps are being taken to begin construction and stocking the store.

Hart said the administration is aiming for a grand opening this school year.

A question of importance is the financing. "We'd like to sell stocks in the store, but no prices are set," said Bill Hart, social studies teacher. "We plan on selling stocks to students, faculty and community members."

The profits from the store will be distributed among the stockholders. The poll of students showed that 285 would buy stock and 277 would not.

Hart is hopeful that a store at Andover High will "spawn school spirit." Andover sweatshirts, sweatpants, jackets and other athletic wear may be sold. Such items could be helpful in building more pride at AHS.

Hart also said the store would be good for interclass enthusiasm. One idea is to have competitions for class logos. The winners could be printed on T-shirts, and each class would have its own. A survey will be distributed to determine what students would buy at the store.

Hart and Hixon stressed the importance of student participation. They are hopeful that students will, for the most part, run the store. They would be in charge of all kinds of jobs, including ordering, keeping the books and marketing. The faculty would be there to facilitate things, they said.

The store will be open to the public and have extended hours. "For it to work, it

AHS Sets Up Amnesty Chapter

By Lesley Brammer

The plea for the protection of human rights has been heard. Andover High School welcomes a chapter of Amnesty International.

AI is a worldwide movement of people who want to prevent the unfair treatment of prisoners in places as near as Central America and as far away as the Middle East. Amnesty members want to gain international public support to stop the torture and unreasonable executions of all political captives.

Last month a group of interested students attended a meeting at the high school. The coordinators, seniors Mims Gaylord and Sarah Derocher, said they were shocked when the expected 10 or 15 quickly expanded to 63. Even more were seeking information the next day.

"The whole thing has snowballed. New people come and ask me about it every day," says Derocher.

Junior Laura Brink said the film presented at the meeting about Amnesty was informative and sparked interest.

Andover High students want to have a productive Amnesty chapter. Each month members will receive "urgent action" sheets which give data on different prisoners. They will then write letters to an important government or military officials, such as a head of state, general or president, to apply pressure on the government for the eventual freeing of the prisoner.

"It takes five or 10 minutes to write a concise letter. How can (one) not spend 50 cents knowing that it may save a life?" Gaylord said.

Each government keeps files of the captives, she added. "When the file gets big enough, the prisoner is freed. One letter could make the difference."

Amnesty members do not "accuse the government," but instead use persuasive tactics to get the prisoner released or, at least, a fair trial. "Amnesty doesn't grade the governments on their record of human rights, but we let them know that we are aware that they're not being fair," Derocher and Gaylord explained.

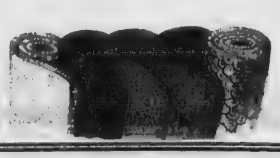

"Kids aren't normally aware of the atrocities committed, but once they find out, they want to help," Derocher said.

Brammer is an AHS junior.

can't just be open to the students," Hart said. The store will be positioned in the cafeteria, the perfect place because people unfamiliar with the school will not have trouble finding it and students will be able to purchase items during their lunch periods.

"Involving more people will make the store a success. I want to get people involved," Hart said. "I'd like to see the enthusiasm come from the student body."

He said the store won't be successful without the students' help. "We see it as a schoolwide activity. First, we'd like to get some interested business students involved, also English students, specifically those in writing classes, to help write for the extensive advertising campaign. We want to develop a video advertisement to be shown on cable TV. We also want kids involved in acting in commercials."

"I hope to see this in place before this year is over," Hixon said. If there is sufficient financial support, Hixon's goal will be met. Details must be ironed out and plans must meet with the approval of the building inspector. However, the store is becoming more of a reality every day.

Both Alberich and Reghitto are AHS seniors.

School Escapes Winter Blahs

A Valentine' Day dance, volleyball tournament and geography bee livened up the mid-winter calendar at Doherty Middle School.

Seventh- and eighth-graders danced the night away at a special Valentine's record hop, complete with disc jockey. This event marks the first time seventh-graders have been invited to the evening dances, which run from 7:30 to 10 p.m

Doherty's sixth-graders began a week-long volleyball tournament. Other sixth-grade activities included an assembly on drug abuse prevention and a field trip to the Boston Aquarium. An after-school pizza party had to be cancelled due to bad weather. Continuing the effort to learn about the environment, the sixth grade will attend an assembly devoted to the state Environmental Protection Agency.

Seventh-graders are taking an inter-disciplinary approach to the subject of water. Focusing on coastal erosion last month, the class examined literary sources, practiced measurement techniques and enjoyed a visual presentation by Peter Hall on erosion in France.

The student council is planning a spring talent competition between the Blue and Gold houses. The council has also begun an evaluation of the intramural sports program.

Doherty's math league team scored its third straight victory of the season. Led by co-captains Kevin Foltz and Michael Tung, who scored 17 out of a possible 18 points, the team made a strong showing. Yoonhee Ahn also contributed 17 points, continuing her solid performance at all meets. Kevin and Mike and Yoonhee Ahn, Ed Chen, Holly Grabowski and Vikramk Penumalli will represent Doherty at the annual Math Counts competition in Lexington.

Merrimack Hosts Video Conference

Merrimack College will be the site of a national video conference on partnerships between business and higher education on Monday, March 6.

The conference will focus on how business and industry can work with colleges to train employees and includes examples of successful programs throughout the country—programs offering credit and non-credit courses and offered on business and campus sites.

The partnerships between the corporate sector and American University, West Los Angeles College and the State University of New York at Albany will be highlighted.

The video conference is being sponsored by the Public Broadcasting Service and the College Board, a national organization that represents more than 2,500 institutions, school systems and agencies serving higher and secondary education.

Presenters at the conference include F.N. Richardson, Jr., manager of training and personnel development at Lederle Laboratories, and Carol B. Asianian, director of adult learning services at the College Board.

The conference, which is open to personnel and training managers, will be held in Murray Lounge in Gildea Hall beginning at 11 a.m. Preregistration, which is necessary, may be arranged through Merrimack's continuing education division.

SADD Hosts Post-Exam Break

By Lisa Weiner

Students Against Drunk Driving sponsored its second annual B.Y.O.B. ("bring your own banana") night in the Andover High School cafeteria Jan. 28. Approximately 120 students attended to celebrate and relax after three days of mid-terms and enjoyed ice cream sundaes, movies, popcorn and drinks. Many businesses, such as Scoops, Movies and More and Pepsi, donated their services to make the evening a success.

The ASK team, with the help of SADD members and officers, sponsored a game and pizza night for first- through fifth-graders in the Andover High cafeteria Friday. The event was put on for Project CHARLIE, the elementary school's drinking and drug abuse awareness program, and included games, pizza and prizes for every participant. The evening was aimed at warning Andover's elementary students of the dangers of drinking and drugs and how to deal with social and peer pressures when they reach high school levels.

SADD is planning other events, such as the prom program which is organized to stress the dangers of drinking and driving. In past years, speakers who have been involved in a drunk-driving situation have talked to students about their experiences.

Weiner is an AHS junior.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

Today many fathers are playing primary roles in their children's lives. Some help their wives in the delivery room and share parenting functions at home. It is no longer considered unmasculine for a father to be loving, tender and gentle with babies and toddlers. There is no reason fathers can't do all the child care tasks that a mother does. Father is equally responsible for the life of the baby. He can share in the great satisfaction of parenthood as the baby develops. A father's tenderness, understanding and attention can become special factors in your child's life.

Are you looking for baby furniture? Come to TINY TOTLAND. where we stock furniture, accessories, wall decorations, lamps toys, mattresses, carriages and much more. We deliver anywhere. The 35 floats were appropriately decorated and contained everything from teddy bears to real babies. The winners were "Cuddles Galore," prettiest; "Princess of Hearts," most original; "Baby Love," cutest; "A Royal Valentine," funniest; and a tie, "An Old Fashioned Valentine" and "King of Hearts," for the theme winner.

Meghan Lynch, Shannon Lee, Jenny Schapira, Erin Collins and Marc Edwards were announcers and Susan James, Jenny Brooks, Kelley Galvin, Katy Chabot, Andrea Catanzaro, Chris Rogers, Eric Stoltz, Ben Garcia, Billy Ryan and Vandan Gandhi were judges. The event was sponsored by the student advisory council.

All students participated in a preliminary round with the class finalists moving on to an elimination round on Jan. 24. James Bellizia, 7A, took first place with David Saladini, 6A, second. The first ballet was performed in Paris in 1581. It was a five-and-a-half-hour spectacle.

Sticky Syrup

West Elementary School third-grader Michael DenHartog is having a little trouble with a sticky batch of maple syrup at a recent school breakfast. West Principal Jack Coyle, teachers and Parent-Teacher Organization members worked over hot grills to serve a pancake and sausage breakfast for Andover families. Proceeds from the event will help fund projects the PTO has planned for the school this year.

'Bye, Bye Birdie' In Rehearsal

Katie Pratt, Danielle Rizzo and Diana Rita, all of Andover, look over music from Bye, Bye, Birdie, an upcoming Merrimack Junior Theatre production. The three are among 49 youngsters cast in the '50s-style musical.

More than a few phones in Andover, North Andover, Lawrence and Methuen are not as busy as they used to be now that Merrimack Junior Theatre has begun rehearsals for Bye, Bye, Birdie to be performed in March.

Forty-nine area sixth- through 10th-graders now spend their weeknight hours on stage-prop phones, trading the musical quips ("What's the story, Morning Glory?" "What's the tale, Nightingale?") that made the play one of the brightest Broadway hits of the 1960s.

Bye, Bye, Birdie is set in the 1950s in Sweet Apple, Ohio. A teenaged girl in this wholesome, heartland town has been selected, as a publicity stunt, to receive the "last kiss" of Elvis-style rocker Conrad Birdie before he leaves for his less-than-voluntary hitch in the Army. With good humor and memorable songs (including "Put on a Happy Face," "Kids" and "The Telephone Hour"), the play traces the impact of this impending moment of fame upon the town, the girl and her steady, Birdie, his manager and the manager's disgruntled fiance.

Starring in the MJT production are Chris Sintros (Birdie), Julie Gediman (Kim, the girl who is to kiss him), Tim Plankey (manager Albert) and Tanya Tamarkin (Rosie, Albert's fiancee), all of Andover

Also in the cast are Julia Gaynor, (the mayor's wife) of North Andover; Eileen Geddes (Kim's mother) and Colin Gregory (Kim's brother), both of Lawrence; and Max Dawson (the bartender), Amy D'Onofrio (Helen), Jen D'Onofrio (Ursula), Kathy Henderson (Nancy), Brad Litchfield (TV stage manager), Bridget Mason (Albert's mother), Kramer O'Neill (Hugo, Kim's steady), Katie Pratt (Alice), Danielle Rizzo (the sad girl), Beth Segal (Margie), Chris Shea (mayor), Ellen Sullivan (Gloria), Erin Sullivan (Deborah Sue), Beth Twohig (Ursula's mother) and Michael Weiner (Kim's father), all of Andover.

Chorus members who play various teens, parents and townspeople are Marie-Helene Renaud of North Andover; Ben

Big Band Sound Evokes Memories

By Olga Jenkins-Price

Music enthusiasts of all ages turned out en masse Friday evening to enjoy the sounds of the Big Band era. The J. Everett Collins Center was filled to capacity with some to hear for the first time, others to recapture the beat of their younger days.

No one sat still! Fingers were drumming, toes tapping, lips sync'd the familiar words and elbows nudged as folks recalled memories of other times and places.

Those in their middle years were heard to mention Mosley's on the Charles, the Totem Pole, the Meadows in Framingham, Kimball's Starlight and the Paramount Theater in Boston. Familiar names to those who danced to the sounds of Jimmy and Tommy Dorsey, Glen Miller, Benny Goodman and Harry James, to mention just a few.

The seventeen piece Harry James Orchestra, under the direction of trumpeter Fred Radke, opened the evening with a medley of James' hits, followed by the Lancers renditions of the Pied Pipers Dorsey classics.

However, the second part of the show brought the high lights of the evening; the still mellow, distinctive baratone voice of Art Lund and the timeless renditions of the ever-young Connie Haines. Their voices and movements belie the years that have passed, proving that the era of the Big Bands is alive and well and still one-night-standing across the country, to the enjoyment of all.

Pingree students Rachel Coburn, Liz Wyatt, Kristyn Burtt, Jennifer Rosman and Andra McCallum, all of Andover, are in rehearsal for the musical Pippin, to go on stage in March.

Andover Students In Play

Several Andover students at Pingree School are rehearsing for their March 3 production of Pippin.

Kristyn Burtt, a junior, is one of three lead players. Other Andover residents who are members of the production company are Rachel Coburn and Liz Wyatt, seniors; Andra McCallum, a junior; and Jennifer Rosman, a sophomore. Beth Mollineaus, a senior, is assistant director.

Stephen Schwartz's musical concerns the search for ultimate fulfillment by the youngest son of Charlemagne, emperor of the Holy Roman Empire. The cast is a vagabond troupe of actors from various time periods who reenact the fictional life of Pipin. Under the direction of a lead player, Pippin begins an idealistic search for self-fulfillment as he tries school, military life, lust, politics and domesticity.

The show will be performed in the Mary Weld Pingree Center for the Performing Arts at Pingree School on March 3 and 4, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, March 5, at 3 p.m.

Earthquake Victims' Advocate To Talk About Armenia

A Boston doctor who has been active in arranging medical care for victims of the Armenian earthquake will speak in Andover Sunday.

Dr. Carolann Najarian will present an eye-witness account and slide presentation of stricken area at West Parish Church Sunday, Feb. 26, from 3 to 6 p.m.

Najarian's presentation is sponsored by the Merrimack Valley chapter of the Armenian General Benevolent Union.

Najarian, a member of the board of directors of Medical Outreach for Armenians Inc., graduated from Boston University School of Medicine in 1980 and interned at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Boston and Mt. Auburn Hospital in Watertown. She is board certified in internal medicine.

Najarian has been active in arranging medical care and supplies throughout the United States as well as the Boston area for the earthquake victims. Just returned from the devastated region, Najarian will bring to the Armenian communities in the Merrimack Valley an up-to-date account of the situation facing the country, AGBU members said.

Medical Outreach for Armenians is a non-profit organization consisting of volunteers who fund their own expenses. Archbishop Torkom Manoogian, Archbishop Mesrob Ashjian, Bishop Nerses M. Setian and the Rev. Moses B. Janbazian serve as honorary co-chairmen.

A reception honoring Najarian will follow the presentation. A donation from each person will go to Armenia aid. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Theologian To Lead St. Augustine Renewal

St. Augustine Church will hold its annual renewal March 5, 6 and 7 at 7 p.m. The Rev. Michael Scanlon, OSA, will lead the program. "The Christian as Disciple" will be the topic.

Scanlon is a professor of systematic theology at the Washington Theological Union where he teaches Christian anthropology and Christology and conducts seminars and research. He lectures at the University of San Francisco and San Diego and at seminaries throughout the United States and Canada. Scanlon is the immediate past president of the American Theological Society and has written many articles in professional journals.

After ordination in 1964, he finished his doctoral studies at Catholic University and began teaching those preparing for priesthood in the Washington area, principally at Augustinian College. He helped establish a cooperative school of theology for the religious communities located in the Greater Washington area.

The St. Augustine's renewal will focus on the literal meaning of disciple—"one who learns from another." Three major topics will be explored, said church staffers. "What do we learn from Jesus about God? What do we learn from Jesus about ourselves? What must we do as contemporary disciples of Jesus?"

Holy Rosary Holds Annual Lenten Tea

Holy Rosary Church's Blessed Virgin Mary Sodality will hold its annual Lenten tea Sunday, March 12, at the Parish Center, 34 Common St., Lawrence.

Contact Holy Rosary Church, Rita Lonardo or Ramona Zappala for tickets.

'Vale United Honors 50-Year Church Members

Longtime members of Ballard Vale United Church will be honored this weekend.

During worship service at 10:30 a.m., the parish will recognize 50-year members of Ballard Vale United, which was formed when the Union Congregational Church and the Ballard Vale United Methodist Church merged about 25 years ago. The women who will be honored Sunday are former members of the merging churches who transferred their membership to Ballard Vale United. They are Doris Smith, Margaret Russell, Hazel Edwards, Isabel Brouck, Ruth Batchelder, Helen Webb, Edna McIntyre, Barbara Hall, Adelaide Shorten and Edith Luminello.

The Feb. 26 service is Guild Sunday at the church. Ballard Vale United Guild President Ruth Mattheson said Nancy Kolitz will be the preacher and Florence Letters, liturgist. In keeping with the lectionary readings this third Sunday of Lent, Kolitz will preach on "Figs, Failings and Faithfulness."

Other guild members, Pat Brouillard, Virginia Maruzzi, Jane Scholtz and Edna McIntyre, will be greeters and ushers. During worship, Ruth Sharpe will give a historical sketch of the guild.

Popular Teacher Ted Boudreau Stricken By Heart Attack

By Robert E. Finneran

St. Augustine Church was filled to capacity Wednesday morning as family and friends paid final tribute to a man whose love of life and people won him the affection and admiration of thousands in the Andover community.

Ted Boudreau, 62, of 183 Summer St., a teacher and coach at the junior high/middle school level, died suddenly Saturday night at Lawrence General Hospital where he had been rushed after suffering a second heart attack. He had returned home Friday after recovering from an initial attack on Feb. 7.

The Rev. James Vitale, OSA, celebrant of the Wednesday morning Mass, described Mr. Boudreau as a "simple, humble friend who loved life and lived it well."

Father Vitale, former assistant at St. Augustine's, offered some personal reflections about the teacher-coach and said that among Mr. Boudreau's many good qualities was his ability to take the burden off people. "When something was going wrong, you had the ability to lend something humorous to provide relief, " Father Vitale said, concluding by stating that Mr. Boudreau was a man who was respected as a truthful and sincere human being.

The celebrant was assisted by the Rev. Stanley Smith a former resident of Andover and also an assistant at St. Augustine's, and Deacon John Capomacchio as concelebrants.

Readers were Dr. Richard F. McGrail, Doherty Middle School principal, and Cathy Blaine, Doherty teacher.

Attorney William Dalton, a close friend and associate of Mr. Boudreau, offered some personal observations built over the years as a student and friend, reminding the filled church that when "Ted hit a home run, no one ever went around the bases with more dignity. The same applied to his life."

Selectman Gerald Silverman, a former associate of Mr. Boudreau, described his former colleague as a person filled with enthusiasm for life and a teacher who enjoyed his profession above all others and gave much to co-workers, students and athletes.

Known as "Mr. B." to both students and co-workers, Mr. Boudreau was born in Methuen and came to Andover as the age of 5. He went to St. Augustine's Grammar School and graduated from Punchard High School in 1944. He received a bachelor's degree from Seton Hall University in 1952 and received a master's degree from Boston College. He served as a chaplain's assistant during World War II.

As an athlete, Mr. Boudreau was selected as an area all-star to participate in an annual north-south game at Fenway Park in Boston. He later went on to play minor league baseball and was a catcher for the Philadelphia Phillies.

In addition to gaining popularity as a teacher and coach in the Andover school system, he was the public address announcer for all home football and basketball games at Andover High.

He is survived by his wife, Betty A. (Sheeley) Boudreau; and two daughters, Lisa, a reporter for The Andover TOWNSMAN, and Jodie, both of Andover.

Burial was in St. Augustine's Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made in his name in care of James Hurley, director of athletics, Andover High School, Shawsheen Road, Andover, Mass.

Viable Option

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

The Shawsheen Extended Daycare (SHED) Program needs the active and vocal support of Andover residents to remain a viable option for Andover's working parents and their kindergarten children. For five years, SHED has provided a wonderful enrichment program combined with daycare assistance, all conveniently located in the Shawsheen School, the town's early childhood center.

Right now though, SHED is being forced to relocate because the Anddover school system projects the town will need the space SHED currently rents within the school. SHED would like to relocate on the campus of Shawsheen School by using a portable classroom. The SHED program needs your support to make this happen.

As you may know, kindergarten classes are only two and a half hours long, five days a week. Then halfway through the year, classes switch from morning to afternoon and vice versa. In short, kindergarten creates a working parent's daycare nightmare. But, in Andover, we have a solution—SHED.

I was first introduced to the SHED proram last March during kindergarten registration. I'm still amazed by the tremendous level of warmth and caring the staff consistently displays.

Each morning as I drop my daughter off, the SHED staff greet her as if she were the only child they wait for. Yet, they enthusiastically greet each child as he or she enters. What's more, their interest is sincere and heartfelt. My daughter knows. She revels in the time she has at SHED—the activities, the projects, the other children and the staff all combine to make her day fresh, exciting and full of adventure. I've watched her grow and learn in so many ways. Each morning she looks forward to going to SHED. And from talking to other SHED parents, I know my daughter isn't alone.

For many families the reality of our economy today, particularly in the Merrimack Valley, dictates that both parents work. Already more than half of all women working in America have young children. The U.S. Bbureau of Labor Statistics projects that during the next couple of decades more than three quarters of all new entrants to the work force will be women.

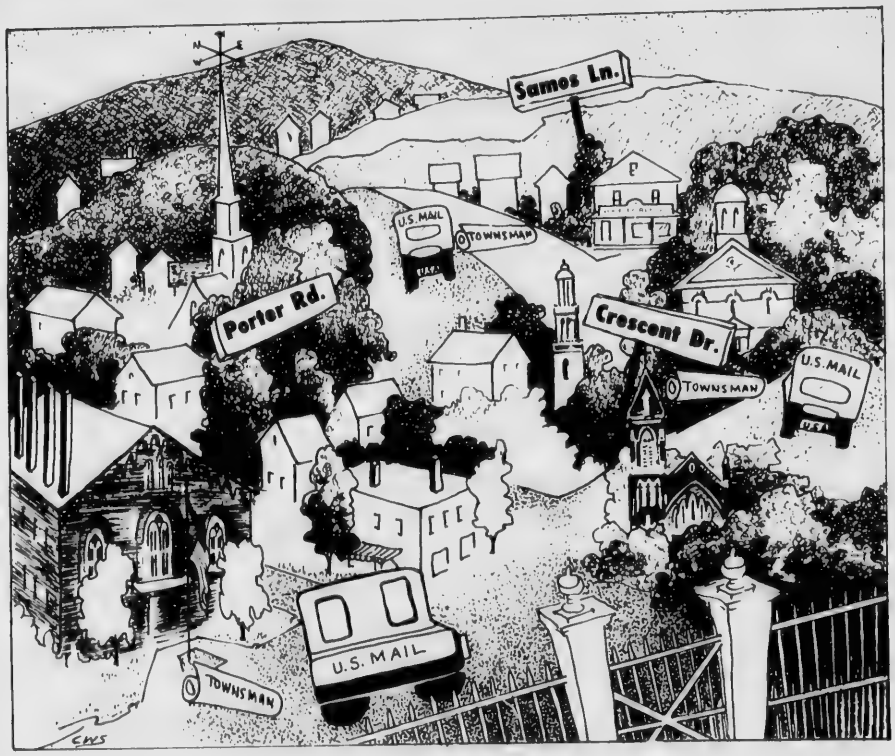

The need for adequate daycare, whether you agree with it or not, is something that will continue throughout the rest of this century.

With SHED, Andover already has more than adequate daycare for kindergarteners.

Yet SHED is not just for children of working parents. By age five many children are ready for a full day of enrichment and socialization with other children. SHED offers them the stimulation they require in a comforting and secure environment.

In addition, SHED's proximity to the

Reading Restricts Depot Parking

By Frank Messina

Reading Town Manager Peter Hechenbleikner knew he'd get some reaction when his town restricted parking near the heavily-used Reading train station Feb. 1, but so far, about a dozen phone calls has been the extent of commuter protest.

"The person really catching the flack has been our parking enforcement officer," said Hechenbleikner. "He's talked to some very angry people."

What has train riders steamed is the elimination of some 160 parking spaces near the station. According to town officials, about 78 communities use the Reading stop because double tracks—which mean more trains and service—extending from Boston end in this small town of 23,000.

When a recent town survey showed that less than one-third of the approximately 500 cars parked near the station belonged to Reading citizens, officials there created a resident sticker zone. "We had a responsibility to protect the community," said Hechenbleikner.

Rather than get mad, the Merrimack Valley Regional Transity Authority decided to get moving.

MVRTA officials have sent a proposal to the Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority asking for a partnership in a Reading station bus shuttle program.

MVRTA buses would leave for the station from several key points in the Merrimack Valley, including Andover, said Joseph Constanzo, MVRTA administrator. The shuttle cost would be 80 cents.

The transit authority is asking the MBTA to allow commuters to pay one fare at either agency.

Under the MVRTA plan, a passenger purchasing a one-way ticket pays the bus driver. The MVRTA would refund the train fare to the MBTA. Monthly train/shuttle passes would be sold by the MBTA.

Constanzo said the proposal is in MBTA hands. State officials indicated they would have some response next month.

Hechenbleikner says train station neighbors have "long had to put up with people parking in front of their driveway or partially in their driveway. This is not anything Reading has done to be selfish."

The town attempted many times to reach a settlement with the MBTA without success before deciding to impose the parking restrictions, said Hechenbleikner. "I would be suprised if (the MVRTA proposal) was in direct response to our actions," he said.

Permits for about 120 town-owned parking spaces near the station are sold at the Reading police station at $60 for three months. Another 120 free parking spaces owned by the MBTA are available.

Andover High Kids Organize Clothing Drive

The freshman class at Andover High School recently completed its clothing drive to help needy people in the Merrimack Valley area and throughout the world.

Under the supervision of class advisers Karen Burke and Dave Gangi, the student body donated clothing in a designated area in the high school's main lobby. The freshman class officers packed and helped transport the clothes to St. Augustine Church in Andover. This clothing will be sorted and sent to needy people.

The drive started at the beginning of February and concluded the Friday before February vacation. The freshman class advisers and officers credit the high school students and administration for making the drive a success.

Town Resident Heads Rain Forest Group

By Lisa A. Boudreau

South America is a long way from Andover, but one resident at least has made the continent's environment a cause.

Craig Flashenberg, 18, son of Stephen and Harriet Flashenberg of 24 Launching Road, is worried. He is worried about the destruction of tropical rain forests that house many of the world's species and keep the earth's environment stable.

In 1980, the World Resources Institute estimated that commercial logging, private consumption, governmental projects and farming interests have leveled 40 percent of the world's tropical rain forests.

After attending a meeting at Lawrence Academy, where he is a senior, Flashenberg decided to get involved. The meeting was set up by science teacher and committed environmentalist Jim Serach to raise campus awareness about the plight of the rain forests.

In the fall, Flashenberg organized a campus group called Students Concerned About Rainforests. "Half the species of animals on earth live in the rain forests," Flashenberg explained. "Now, half of those rain forests are gone. This is the generation that has a chance to make a difference."

Flashenberg has taken his interest and turned it into commitment. Along with the help of fellow students and his science teacher, Flashenberg began organizing follow-up meetings to get fund-raising and information gathering underway.

Flashenberg works out of the "swamp," Serach's offfice in the school's Natural Museum, so named for the exotic snakes and other wildlife who call it home. He started by contacting various environmental organizations, which offered a lot of help and rain forest conservation information, promotional slides and posters, as well as advice on how to start the group at Lawrence Academy, Flashenberg said.

"The swamp is a great place to be if you want to see people," he said. "Students would walk by and I'd get them interested by telling them what SCAR is all about."

Initially 80 people attended the informal meeting in the fall. The organization has grown in membership and now includes more than 120 students and faculty.

OPINION

A Good Sign

Andover's annual town election, just about a month away, looks like it may have some life this year.

Unlike past annual elections where there was only a single contest and, in one year, no contest at all, this year there are three contests which should attract attention and, consequently, a decent voter turnout.

The selectmen race attracted the most attention as two incumbents announced their intent to seek re-election and were challenged by two people who have been actively involved in municipal affairs.

Incumbents Gerald Silverman and Charles Wesson will go into the annual election as having the benefit of incumbency with them.

But their challengers, Jack Dziadul and George Danneman, have both had an impact on Andover's municipal affairs, one through the low-moderate income housing controvesry, the other through involvement in the proposed Andover-Lawrence Collaborative school which was ultimately rejected by a special Andover town meeting.

One can anticipate these issues having an impact on the attention Andover voters give their candidacy on election day in March.

The school committee race should prove an interesting one.

There are two vacancies for three-year terms on the board through the decision of Chairman Donald Robb and Committeeman Richard Neal not to seek re-election.

Of the three persons seeking to replace these committeemen, Andres Salazar has the most visibility having sought election to the board a year ago at the last minute after a candidate dropped out.

The other two candidates, Chris Outwin and Richard Hubbell, are both seeking municipal office for the first time.

The other contest on the March ballot will see a rematch between long-time Moderator James D. Doherty and John Doyle, a vociferous town meeting participant, often challenging the moderator's rulings or conduct of annual and special town meeting sessions.

A year ago, Doherty easily outdistanced Doyle in the moderator's contest, despite an active campaign by both candidates.

In any case it would appear that Andover voters this year will have an opportunity to express themselves at the ballot box unlike previous years when interest was constantly at a low ebb.

To insure that the interest will be there, it is now up to the candidates to put forth and discuss issues and generally maintain the attention of the Andover electorate between now and March 27.

DOWN THE YEARS

100 Years Ago — February 1889

Miss M. A. Whitman visited at B. Locke's house this week.

The coming caucuses promise to be of a very lively nature.

Miss Ethel Warren of Fairhaven, is visiting Dr. C. E. Abbot's.

Rev. W. A. Evans will preach at the Free Chrurch next Sunday.

Edward Jameson of West Parish has gone to Boston, where he has obtained a position.

G. H. Buck of the seminary, fell on the ice at Rabbit's rock pond, last Friday, cutting his head quite severely.

About thirty young people attended a social gathering at the home of Jesse Clark in West Parish, last Friday evening. Games, instrumental and vocal music, made the evening pass very pleasantly.

It is probable that an article will be inserted in the town warrant at the coming meeting, asking the town to vote to establish a lock-up in or near the town. This is a something which has been long desired and needed, and it is hoped that the citizens will give it careful thought before throwing it aside. There are several good reasons why there should be one in the center of twon. The distance to the present lockup at the aimshouse is often a great hinderance.

Mrs. Anna Paddick of this town is visiting in Oswego, N.Y.

Frank Dodge is confined to his home on Park street by illness.

Miss Jane Carpenter of Morton street is spending a few days in New York.

Mary Alley of High street is recovering from a severe attack of tonsilitis.

Local technology students have returned to their studies after a short vacation.

Thomas E. Rhodes had a narrow escape from injury this week when he was thrown from his team as his horse suddenly rounded the corner of his driveway at his home on Chestnut street.

The trolley service between Andover and Lawrence was delayed on Thursday morning when one of the trolley wires in the square broke.

"Seal Kid, Jr.," Boston terrier pup from the F.X. Caron kennel of Lawrence, and owned by Omer Ouelette of Andover, won two ribbons at the Boston Terrier Show, Boston, this week.

The fire department was called early Thursday morning to the home of Miss Alice Gray on Salem street on account of a chimney fire coming from an overheated fireplace. The resulting damage was very slight.

Miss Esther Smith fell and broke her leg while playing soccer football on the lawn of Walter Aufermann's house at Murray Hill, N.J., where she was visiting. She was taken to the Overlook Hospital at Summit, N. J., and is doing well.

Ted Boudreau: Andover's Friend

By R.E. Petrella

At a time when the respectability of sports idols is measured by the position each holds on the earnings list, Andover has lost perhaps its most invaluable resident.

There's just no putting a price on the effect this baseball enthusiast had on us as individuals and as a community.

It's been more than 10 years since I sat in Ted Boudreau's corner classroom, since I first began to understand why everyone spoke so highly of him. He genuinely defined the charm I have always found in my hometown, both through the awkward years of junior high and as a Boston commuter who can't quite tear herself away. He didn't gain this respect through monetary donations or a claim to fame that would put Andover on the map. He gave of himself for the better part of his life, and it was always very obvious that he derived great pleasure from doing so. We should all be so lucky as to find our work less a chore than a labor of love. The loss we feel goes beyond the sad thought of not being able to see him around anymore. It is in knowing how sorely we will miss the gentle compassion of his simple kindness.

Mr. B. was a quality standout in the teaching profession, a person who kept hundreds of names and faces in his head. It is said that the truest measure of success is in the effect one has on the lives he touches. Mr. B. was never named MVP in the World Series and he never ran for the Oval Office, but our new president would have only to look at a fraction of his family, friends, students and co-workers to find "a thousand points of light." This man succeeded in grand proportions on a personal level because he paid attention to the basic things in life. The genuine interest he held in those around him was an honest-to-God comfort.

Our sense of loss is as much for the man as it is for the embodiment of his spirit, that beautifully optimistic and fun-loving character that endeared him to so many. From the baseball diamond to the broadcast booth to the student network to the classroom, Mr. B. made us all feel so much at home with ourselves and within our community. This kind of grace is, indeed, hard to come by. His way was a sweet reminder of what is truly important, what will always matter regardless of where we go or who we become.

So many people can fit the mold of a leader, but adoration is probably known in its purest form by a person like Mr. B., who didn't act the way he did in hopes of achieving it. Mr. B. went about his business leading by quiet example. He tended to the irreplaceable, the value of family, friends and community. No doubt, this is why I had come to associate Mr. B. with the peaceful air of contentment—something that sounds too simple to be so rare.

Hearing that he was planning to retire

made me feel happy for him and a little sad for all the students who might never know his kind humor. As one in a group of spastic seventh-graders going nuts over a scientific undertaking, I remember this calm man saying: "When all else fails, follow directions." I find myself quoting this same reasoning when things get more complex than they really need to be. He meant that literally at the time, but it echoes the respect he had for life's simpler things—teaching a science class, honing a group of up-and-coming baseball players, calling attention to a basketball player's stats, talking sports with Andover's young talent and filling the fresh air of autumn with football coverage.

Shaking our heads and saying Andover will never be the same falls short of the respect we should show for this man's incredible contributions and personal commitment. As members of this community, neighbors, students and co-workers this man counted as friends and fond acquaintances, we should take it upon ourselves to keep that part we are allowed. The way he acted toward friends and strangers, his contagious self-contentment, did not put a noticeable strain on Mr. B. He had a peaceful disposition that made us all feel good inside. Without striving at the expense of others, he managed to remain interested in and dedicated to his surroundings.

There are few things worse than regret in this life, so I have to be happy for Ted Boudreau—his life left so little room for it. Wouldn't it be something if each of us could (or would at least look) to conduct ourselves in a manner that would bring us the inner peace to take time for one another without expecting anything more than the comforting sense of community in return? We would do well to read from a page in this man's book.

Much of the time we can console our losses by realizing that the person is comfortable and at peace. Then there's a case like this where the emptiness is accompanied by the feeling that Mr. B. was so much at peace here. I think it is better in this instance to feel blessed than to ask why. It is said that what comes around goes around; more gracefully put, "you get what you give." May you rest in the peace you brought to this community, Mr. B., and may you fully understand our love and appreciation.

I'm sure that force of habit will find me looking to his front lawn for a wave as I drive by or go for a run up Summer Street. I know it won't seem quite right not to hear his voice at the games or see his station wagon parked and running at the mailbox across the street. His friendship and compassion made us all feel privileged. May each of us take the time to care and contribute with a clear eye on what really counts. It is my hope that in following his example, in making an honest effort to keep his spirit alive in our schools and in this town as a whole, we will cushion the grief of his passing.

Saying goodbye to Mr. B. is certainly hard enough. We need to be thankful that it is not necessary to bid farewell to all he was kind enough to share with us. We are truly better for having known him.

be made by the Board of Public Works if $7750 is spent for five new trucks this year, Eldon E. Stark, Taxpayers' association representative, reported last Friday.

The total B. P. W. budget is $144,500 including the trucks as against last year's $145,200.

Several cuts in the health department appropriation were recommeded by delegate Joseph T. Gagne at the Taxpayers' association directors meeting last Friday. Mr. Gagne made a ten-year survey of expenditures, in which he found that the discontinuance of several items such as slaughter inspector, animal inspector and sanitorium account had totalled $1550, but in spite of these reductions the tendency was constantly to increase the appropriation.

The impression that the school committee, aware that the finance committee would try to cut the budget, had passed a budget higher in their own minds that was actually necessary was gained by attorneys Walter Tomlinson and Fred H. Eaton, Taxpayers' Association representatives, when they sat in on the board budget discussion, according to the report they made last Friday night at the T.P.A. directors' meeting.

Reductions totaling around $7,000 were recommended by the two representatives, who said that they found the superintendent runs the department efficiently. Specific items mentioned were: traveling expenses, for which $260 is allowed, for which nothing was spent last year, recommended cut to $100; two new cadet teachers which could probably be dispensed with, $500 off; Bradlee school basement job $3,000; unaccounted $2200.

The display of old pewter at the Andover Historical Society's open house on Washington's Birthday, borrowed from nearly a dozen for the Society's members, besides some interesting examples of an ancient art, should give a pretty good general idea of the sort of household untensils that an ordinary New England family possessed during all the eighteenth century and into the nineteenth. Sometime thereafter cheap crockery and electroplating finally put the old-fashioned pewterers out of business.

The Abbot Academy Alumnae Association and the Boston Abbot Club will hold their annual luncheon on Saturday at the Women's City Club, Boston, at 12 o'clock. The guests of honor will be Miss Mildred McAfee, president of Wellesley College, and Miss Hearsey, principal of Abbot. As a large attendance is expected all alumnae who have not made reservations are asked to do so at once.

25 Years Ago — February 1964

A possible access out of Bernard Champy's industrial land behind Raytheon Co., and progress in the excavation of gravel in the same area, will be on the agenda of a joint meeting in the near future. The Selectmen, mostly on the insistence of member William Stewart, want to talk over both items with Mr. Champy and the Route 495 contractor.

Town Manager Thomas E. Duff's best guess on a tax rate for 1964 is $31 to $31.50- a 2-21/2 dollar increase over the 1963 rate.

In a low-voiced presentation, which two spectators and reporters had to strain to hear, Mr. Duff told the board:

An overall budget increase of about $500,000 is expected. This includes schools and general government.

Money from surplus funds will presumably be used to offset special articles, the effect on the rate will be zero.

The town should receive nearly $250,000 from the state for educational reimbursements, during 1964.

The receipts, which school administrators feel are lost in the maginitude of the budget itself, go into the town's free cash account. Thus the money is available, in 1965, for use as voted at town meeting

SPORTING LIFE

Hoopsters Near Tourney Berths

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls' varsity basketball team qualified for the Eastern Mass. Division 1 Tournament for the second consecutive year, the boys' varsity hoop squad maneuvered itself into position to do the same thing, and the varsity hockey crew completed its season with a series of near misses last week.

The Lady Warriors improved to 12-7 overall, 10-7 in the Merrimack Valley Conference, as they hammered Dracut (51-20), pulverized Billerica (67-16), and then dropped a tough 47-43 decision to Wilmington this past Monday.

The guys improved to 10-6 overall, 8-6 in the MVC, as they beat consecutive tattoos on Dracut (66-38) and Billerica (60-42).

Coach Tom Ryser's team was primed to make the grade during this final week of regular-season activities.

The hockey team finished with a somewhat deceptive 7-12-1 mark after tying Dracut (2-2) and bowing to Lynn English (2-1), Billerica (6-2) and Chelmsford (6-4).

Girls' Basketball

Andover left no doubt in anyone's mind with its two victories last week, hanging both Dracut and Billerica out to dry.

The middle two quarters were the killers against Dracut, Andover outscoring the Middies by a whopping 28-6 margin in those 16 minutes as they moved within one victory of qualifying.

Capt. Lee Dziadosz and Julie Salazar continued to be the Warriors' 1-2 punch with 10 points apiece, with Salazar also pulling down 10 rebounds.

Senior center Jackie Kupa had her best outing since returning to the lineup after a prolonged absence, pocketing eight points and corraling eight rebounds.

Kara Slavin pumped through seven points while Kristen Sullivan, Jodi Jangro and Hajj added four apiece.

Junior Kim Daley netted a basket and Liz Hanson added a pair of free throws.

Nicole Ricci and Dee Dee Castinoli also played well.

Andover left no doubt about it as they qualified with a resounding 67-16 thrashing of Billerica.

It was 17-2 after one quarter, 39-6 at halftime, and the final 16 minutes were merely a formality.

Proof of coach George Sullivan's compassion, however, came in the fact all 13 Andover players scored and no one had more than nine points.

Nicole Ricci and Jodi Jangro were tops with nine apiece, Liz Hanson delivered eight, Julie Salazar eight, Lee Dziadosz seven, Dee Dee Castinoli six, Kim Daley four, Hajj four, Kara Slavin four, Grace Perry three, Jackie Kupa two, Laura Hebeisen two and Kristen Sullivan a free throw.

In the twin romps over Dracut and Billerica the two teams combined for just 10 fieldgoals between them.

Small School runnerup Wilmington put an end to the free rides, completing a sweep of the series in the process.

The Wildcats assumed a slim 19-15 edge at halftime and then traded baskets the rest of the afternoon.

Julie Salazar sparked AHS with 12 points, Jackie Kupa netted nine, Jodi Jangro eight, Kara Slavin seven, Lee Dziadosz five and Nicole Ricci two.

Boys' Basketball

After a pretty rough stretch against the iron, the Andover boys brought post-season play back into focus.

Dracut was no match for the Warriors, who placed three in twin digits and built the lead to 31-19 at halftime and 50-28 after three quarters.

Senior center Todd Musterait contributed 18 points and 12 rebounds to Andover's first victory in four starts.

Juniors Steffan Tomlinson and John Thompson pocketed 12 and 11 points respectively, while sophomore Brett Hammond looked like a seasoned veteran with seven points.

John Russell and Paul Lembo flipped through six points each, sophomore point-guard Matt Perry four and Chris Eggert a deuce.

Billerica, whose veteran coach Ed James will retire at the end of the season, stayed close with the Warriors for appoximately 12 minutes.

But Andover gradually started to pull away late in the opening half, and kept BMHS from making any serious runs after intermission.

John Russell poured through 19 points, all of 'em in the second half, while Musterait wasn't far behind with 16.

Tomlinson stuffed eight points, Perry seven and Thompson tossed through five points.

Joe Iarrobino netted a free throw, abd others who played well to keep the tourney flame burning were Jeff Hurley and freshman Sean Ryan.

Hockey

Tough luck was the AHS hockey team's middle name this winter, as the Golden Warriors earned plenty of respect but had difficulty translating that esteem into victories.

Only twice in 20 games was Andover totally outplayed, but the campaign closed with a five-game winless streak that included four games against tourney qualifiers.

Junior goaltender Ed Owens turned in a stellar performance in a 2-1 loss to Lynn English, but the only offense AHS could muster was a Matt Pothier goal.

Owens came up shining once again as the Warriors tied Dracut, 2-2.

The Middies held a 36-19 shooting advantage, but Owens turned aside 34 shotsto help preserve the tie.

Sean Darwin converted a Frank Morey pass early in the second period to break a scoreless toe, but the first of Craig Shattuck's two unassisted goals tied it a short time later.

D.J. Camarota's goal, assisted by Darwin, shot Andover into its second lead in the final stanza. But once again Shattuck responded.

MVHL Large School Division champion Billerica, which had struggled to a 6-3 win over Andover the first time around, tussled again as Owens' 54-save performance enabled the locals to stay close.

In fact, Andover trailed only 3-2 early in the final period before Billerica (15-4-1) finally took control.

Sean Darwin and Chris McAnally provided the offense with their 10th and fifth goals respectively, while assists went to defenseman Andy Weiner, Jack Dalton and Jim Morris.

With six minutes remaining in the finale against Chelmsford, another perennial MVHL power, AHS was behind just 4-3.

But Jeff Stagnone and Dave Balan of Chelmsford applied the final clamps.

Andy Weiner netted his eighth and nith goals, Sean Darwin pumped home his 11th and Matt Pothier ended a stellar varsity career with his 15th goal of the year.

Todd Roycroft, Doug Bleszinski (2), Weiner, Darwin and Pothier passed out assists.

Owens almost had a vacation, facing only 30 shots and making 24 ssves.

Hockey Club Seeks Donations

The Hat Trick Club, a booster organization for Andover High School hockey, is accepting donations from local businesses.

The club was organized in 1972 to encourage and support the AHS hockey team. President Robert Pothier said the Hat Trick Club gives a scholarship to a senior every year; puts on a banquet at the end of the season; passes out awards and gifts; and, whenever possible, provides the teams with needed equipment and supplies the school athletic budget cannot provide.

Contributions are tax deductible. If you're interested, make checks payable to the Hat Trick Club and mail them to Jerry Weiner, treasurer, 79 Wild Rose Drive, Andover.

St. Augustine's Senior League Champs

By Rick Harrison

Paul Lisiak led eight players into the scoring column as undefeated St. Augustine B clinched the 1988-89 Andover Church Basketball League Senior Division championship with a hard-fought 54-48 victory over upset-minded St. Augustine A in recent action at the West Middle School gym.

The triumph left SAB at 9-0 overall, two games ahead of second place St. Robert's A (7-2) with just one remaining.

SRA secured undisputed possession of second place with a 28-26 decision over stubborn St. Robert's B, and Ballardvale United left only two teams with winning records after it trimmed South Church, 35-28.

Senior Division teams were idle this week because of school vacation, and conclude the season Sunday at West Middle when Ballardvale faces SRA (4 p.m.), South tries to prevent St. Augustine B from completing a perfect campaign (5 p.m.), and SRB duels St. Augustine A.

The individual scoring race has come right down to the wire, with five players just 10 points apart.

Mark Lastrina of South maintains a slim lead with 95 points, followed by Mike D'Angelo (SAA) with 92, Chris Shea (SRB) 91, Paul Lisiak (SAB) 86 and Kevin Lewis (SRA) 85.

St. Augustine B

The division champs eventually prevailed because of their height advantage, although intra-church rival St. Augustine A kept it interesting with torrid outside shooting by Mike D'Angelo, Rod Lumley and Dave Bromberg.

Paul Lisiak powered SAB in its all-out effort with 20 points, while Jamey Lionette netted 9, Peter Cookson 7 and George Loukatos 7.

Adam Goddess contributed 4 points, Larry Gibson 3, Josh Nelken 2 and Sean Gauthier 2 as all eight players in attendance scored.

D'Angelo and Lumley ignited the four-man SAA attack with 18 and 13 points respectively, while Rich Radulski added 9 and Dave Bromberg 8.

Greg Peters and Todd Cadagan also played well.

St. Augustine B inched ahead 12-10 after one quarter, led 22-17 at halftime, and managed a 38-31 advantage after three periods.

St. Robert's A, 28-26

St. Robert's B, primed for the upset, was leading 22-20 with two minutes to play.

Steve Marchlik of SRA then pocketed his only two baskets of the game, both from underneath, to make it 24-22.

Kevin Lewis' bucket completed a 6-0 run for a 26-22 St. Robert's A lead, but Adam Ferry countered for SRB to make it a two point game again.

St. Robert's B threw one last scare into SRA at the buzzer, but a 30-foot heave narrowly missed going in off the backboard.

Keith Selvitelli was high man for the winners, who trailed 10-9 after one quarter and 15-14 at halftime, with 7 points.

Dave Gardner and Kevin Lewis added 6 points apiece, Steve Shepard and Steve Marchlik 4 points each, and Mike O'Sullivan swished a free throw.

Adam Ferry and Chris Shea shared game-high point honors with 8 apiece for SRB, Scott Henry and Rejji Hayes notched 4 eacg, and Mark Baker buried a first-quarter fieldgoal.

Paul Durant, Ian Timmons and John Spignesi were other St. Robert's B standouts.

Ballardvale, 38-25

Ballardvale, a greatly-improved team since the beginning of the season, played a deliberate, pass-oriented game that relied on high-percentage shots.

The strategy worked against South, with BU also getting its share of rebounds against the taller South squad.

With Dan Mooney at point-guard controlling the Ballardvale offense, Colin Arsenault and Mike Famiglietti were on target with 14 and 8 points respectively.

Andy Leinson and Gary Znamierowski chipped in 4 points each, Mooney 3 and Keith Bilger a pair for the winners.

Ballardvale led 14-9 after one period, 20-17 at halftime and 30-24 after three stanzas.

Todd Gray again spearheaded South with 11 points, Mark Lastrina added 5, Ryan Morgan 4, Adam Cohen 4, Ed McKertich 2 and Chris Lavin 2.

Pee Wee A's Lose To Medford

The Andover Pee Wee A hockey team faced off against Medford last week at Tyngsboro. Andover fell behind 1-0 after the first period. Then Medford broke the game wide open in the second period, scoring four unanswered goals to take a 5-0 lead.

Medford scored again in the third period before Andover finally got on the scoreboard. Ryan Moynihan came down the left side and fired a perfect shot along the ice into the far corner past the startled Medford goalie. A minute later he again broke in on the goalie after receiving passes from Dave Wartman and Paul Allard. The shot was partially blocked, but it had enough momentum to bounce into the air and over the sprawled goalie. Medford managed to score another to pin a 7-2 loss on Andover.

Andover's next game was against North Middlesex at Merrimack College. They got off to a slow start, falling behind 2-0. Finally Brian Flanagan poked in a rebound after Wartman and Moynihan had their shots blocked. A few minutes later Allard took a pass from Moynihan and fired home a shot from the point to tie the game 2-2 after the first period.

Andover took control of the game in the second period. Wartman took a pass from Moynihan and skated around a North Middlesex defenseman before wristing home a shot to the low left-hand corner. Minutes later Andover scored its fourth goal on the powerplay. Flanagan poked in a loose puck after a scramble in front with Moynihan and Wartman assisting.

Andover continued its strong play in the third period when Moynihan scored from the slot after receiving passes from the corner from Richie Enos and Dan Hansberry. Flanagan completed his hat trick after trading passes with Moynihan. Finally, Bobby Daley scored Andover's last goal by kicking in a goal-crease pass from Dan Trede to up the lead 7-2. North Middlesex scored a goal in the final minute of play. Andover won the game by a score of 7-3.

The school stresses the fundamentals of throwing, fielding and hitting. A video analysis is done each week on each player, with an individual evaluation presented at the completion of the school.

The camp will continue on a weekly basis, every Sunday, through its conclusion the first Sunday in March.

Other coaches include Bill Blood (Methuen High varsity coach), Marc Pelletier (Central Catholic High varsity coach) and Phil Cultrera (Salem, N.H. High varsity coach).

Diabetes

Joslin Diabetes Center in Boston needs volunteers for a study to test the effectiveness of a drug researchers believe may offer important potential benefits to people with noninsulin-dependent (Type II) diabetes. Metformin has been used in Canada and Europe since the 1970s to lower blood sugars, cholesterol and blood fats in many diabetic patients and appers to promote weight loss in some individuals.

Free consultations from Joslin physicians, nurses and dietitians will be provided. Participants must be between the ages of 30 and 70, have Type II diabetes, be overwieight by 20 percent or more, not taking any medication for their diabetes, and, if female, have no childbearing potential. They must have normal liver and kidney function and no significant cardiovascular problems.

Diabetes is a condition in which the body either ceases to produce the hormone insulin or is unable to use it effectively. As a result, people with the disease cannot convert food into energy properly and have abnormally high concentrations of sugar in the bloodstream. Patients with Type I (insulin-dependent) diabetes must take daily insulin injections, watch their diets carefully and exercise regularly to manage their disease. Those with Type II (noninslindependent) diabetes can frequently control their disease with diet and exercise alone or in combination with blood-sugar-lowering oral medications known as hypoglycemic agents.

Shareholder Rights Plan Adopted

Andover Bancorp, Inc., the holding company for Andover Savings Bank, has announced that its board of directors has adopted a shareholder rights plan.

According to Robert M. Henderson, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Andover Bancorp, "The shareholder rights plan is intended to ensure that all our shareholders receive a fair price for their shares in the event of a hostile attempt to gain control of Andover Bancorp. Although the rights plan is not intended to prevent a takeover of Andover Bancorp and will not do so, it is designed to deal with unilateral actions by hostile acquirers that could deprive the board of directors and the shareholders of their ability to determine Andover Bancorp's destiny and to obtain the highest price for their shares."

The rights plan protects against coercive and unfair takeover tactics aimed at Andover Bancorp, including unfair two-tier tender offers and other abusive tactics aimed at gaining control of Andover Bancorp on inequitable terms.

Under the plan, the rights will automatically become part of the shares of common stock and will trade with them. Initially, the rights are not exercisable. Each right, if it becomes exercisable, would entitle a shareholder to buy 1/100 of a share of a new series of Andover Bancorp junior participating preferred stock at an exercise price of $90. The rights would only become exercisable ten days after a public announcement that a person has become the beneficial owner of 20 percent or more of Andover Vancorp's common stock, ten business days after the commencement of a tender offer that would result in the ownership of 20 percent or more of the common stock, or upon the declaration by the board of directors that a person who is the beneficial owner of 10 percent or more of the common stock is an "adverse person." The board could declare a person to be an adverse person if it determined that he may cause Andover Bancorp to repurchase his common stock or pressure Andover Bancorp to enter into a transaction to provide such person with short-term financial gain not in the best long-term interests of Andover Bancorp and its shareholders or under certain other circumstances specified in the plan.

In the event of the acquisition of 50 percent or more of the assets or earning power of Andover Bancorp or Andover Bancorp is acquired and is not the surviving corporation in a merger, each right would then entitle the holder to purchase, at the then-current exercise price, shares of common stock of the acquiring company having a value of twice the exercise price of the right. If any party were to acquire 20 percent or more of Andover Bancorp's common stock or if any person were to be declared an adverse person, holders of the rights would be entitled to acquire shares of Andover Bancorp junior participating preferred stock having a value of twice the then-current exercise price.

The rights will expire Feb. 16, 1999, but may be redeemed at the option of the board for 2 cents per right until ten days after a person becomes a 20 percent shareholder of Andover Bancorp or until certain triggering events have occurred.

The rights are distributable to shareholders of record on Feb. 27, 1989. The rights do not entitle holders to any voting power or other shareholder rights. The distribution of the rights does not dilute the shareholders' ownership of Andover Bancorp

Amore Hearing Aid Consultants

This tiny, flesh colored plug, no bigger that a toothpaste tube cap, can change the quality of a person's life. "This is the 'canal' hearing aid," said Theresa Manzi Amore, owner of Amore Hearing Consultants of Lawrence. The device is all but lost in her palm. "It fits into the ear canal and is virtually undetectable. Former President Reagan wears one in each ear."

Mrs. Amore deals with small everyday miracles like the canal aid and the slightly larger "all in the ear" model, completely contained in the ear. In here 34 years in the field she has witnessed a revolution, both in hearing aid technology and in the public attitude toward hearing loss.

"When I started out it was considered a catastrophe," she said. People are now better educated about hearing loss."

In 1955, when Mrs. Amore began her work, the standard hearing aid was a cumbersome affair connected to a ear-carried battery pack. Now, six out of ten patients wear the "all in the ear"; other wear canal aids, aids with behind the ear attachments or eyeglass models. The proper aid for a person, Mrs. Amore feels, depends largely upon the degree and type of hearing loss.

Mrs. Amore works with all ages and welcomes Medicaid patients. To maintain her board certification and keep ahead in her field, she must take courses every year.

Although as a Hearing Aid Consultant she test hearing, prescribes, fits and repairs aids, Mrs. Amore emphasizes that her skills complement those of medical specialists they do not replace them. She believes that patients who suspect hearing loss should see a competent specialist.

Amore Hearing Aid Consultants, 101 Amesbury St., Lawrence, is open Mon., Tues., Thurs. and Fri. 9-5 and Wed. and Sat. 9-12. Call 682-4730 for an appointment. Mrs. Amore also has an office in Haverhill at 3 Washington Square. For an appointment in her Haverhill office, call 372-4851.

BUSINESS PROFILES

Creative Flooring

Owners Janice and Tony Querci are veterans in the flooring business. With the assistance of their experienced sales staff, there isn't a flooring problem that they can't solve.

Mannington, Armstrong, Congoleum and Tarkett are well known names in flooring that may be found at Creative Flooring. The Mannington design Center has an outstanding selection of "never wax" floors. Armstrong flooring ranges from the lower priced Castilian, to Crown Corlon, to Designer Solarian, to the top of the line Solarian Supreme.

They have added Gulistan, Salem and Horizon to their extensive carpet line which includes Designer Gallery, pineland and Philadelphia Carpets. A wide range of carpeting from indoor/outdoor, luxurious carpeting for the home, to the sturdiest commercial carpeting for business. Carpet padding is a vital necessity and Creative Flooring carries a number of grades of heavy fine quality padding. Host Dry Carpet Cleaner may be rented from them to maintain carpeting.

Creative Flooring also carries hardwood floor collections bty Bruce, Harris-Tarkett and Hartco. Hartco hardwood floors come in a variety of colors and patterns. It is pre-finished flooring with solid oak moulding.

A complete line of sundries is also available for installation and maintenance of their flooring

Creative Flooring will come to the customer's home to measure and estimate cost. They will install the flooring or provide the equipment needed for the do-it-yourselfer. An extensive line of carpet and vinyl remnants and rolls are available at a tremendous savings.

Creative Flooring is located at 281 Main Street, North Reading. Telephone (508) 664-0006.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

By Wanda Farr
Realty U.S.A.
Schruender Real Estate

IS IT TIME TO TAKE THE PLUNGE?

Your landlord just sent you a notice that he's increasing your rent and it's the last straw! You sit down, go over your finances, and begin to think that this might be the right time to stop paying rent and get a place of your own. It makes you nervous, and you don't have a lot of ready cash for the down payment and closing costs. This is perfect time to sit down with a good agent to talk about the possibilities.

We've helped a lot of people buy their first homes, and we know all of the tricks that can make it happen. If you're low on cash there might be a perfect FHA or other government program that can help you purchase with limited funds. An adjustable rate mortgage can help ease the strain of your first mortgage payments. You might be pleasantly surprised when the agent shows you how your tax savings can reduce the costs of ownership, making the monthly payments comparable to the rent you now give your landlord. Then there's the equity you'll build as the property increases in value over the years.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate professionals at Realty USA Schruender Real Estate are ready to serve you. Call us at 685-5000 or drop by our offices at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover.

Rain Forests

With a small loan from the academy's student life fund, SCAR bought shirts and printed them with the SCAR logo and "Save 'em" motto. Members sold out the shirts on campus in under two hours, Flashenberg said. The shirt sale enabled the group to pay back the loan, buy slides and promotional material they plan to use in presentations, plus reinvest in more shirts.

Flashenberg says one of the group's goals is to educate people about the signifigance the rain forests play in maintaining the quality of everyday life and to the problems the remaining rain forests face.

Flashenberg and other SCAR members are planning presentations to other schools and civic groups with movies, slide shows and exhibits that bring home the threat the destruction of the global rain forests causes.

In the spring Flashenberg will be graduating from Lawrence Academy, and he plans to go on to college. But before he does, he said he has one other goal. He wants to firmly establish SCAR at his school and find underclassmen who are motivated enough to head the group in coming years.

Bus License

setts Bay Transit Authority pulled a $204,000 subsidy from the Everett-based firm in October. One month later, Trombly Commuter beat out a crowded field for the MBTA money.

But Merrimac co-owner Steve Caplan still owned the DPU license, and he vowed to stay in business despite losing the subsidy.

The three-month chess game came to a stalemate three weeks ago, when the DPU denied Trombly Commuter an emergency permit to begin operations.

The DPU action meant the Dracut bus company was forced to initiate a longer, more complicated permit process. The emergency application was held in case Merrimac decided to go ahead with previously announced service cutbacks. Caplan, who said financial setbacks left him no choice but to scale down operations, was forced to cancel the planned service reductions.

"It was weird, hectic, frustrating, what other word can I use to describe the situation?" asked Trombly.

But the firms were forced back to the bargaining table and hammered out an agreement two weeks later.

"It was an equitable deal for both parties," said Trombly.

Trombly Commuter Lines has purchased 11 buses and will be ready on Feb. 27, he said.

"I anticipate our ridership increasing. This is our only business, and it will be a first-class operation. Taking care of the public will be our first concern," said Trombly.

Merrimac, whose owners also operate Grayline Bus Tours in Boston, had purchased the Boston route from Trombly's father three years ago. But the younger Trombly wants it known that his firm has no connection with Trombly Motor Coach.

"I want it to stand on its own two feet," he said. Although he shares the same building with his father's company, "There's a separate and distinct wall that separates us and it might as well be three towns wide.

"My father and brother and other people working here have helped me a lot," he said.

Professional Secretaries To Meet March 13

The Merrimack Valley Chapter of Professional Secretaries International will hold its monthly meeting Monday, March 13, at the Radisson Heritage Hotel in Chelmsford.

All secretaries in the Merrimack Valley are invited to attend these meetings which are held on the second Monday of the month.

PSI is a non-profit professional association that unites members throughout the country and abroad to maintain and upgrade the standards of secretarial performance by means of continuing education.

Housing Project

over several options, including selling the general industrial zoned land or developing it as industrial.

Zollner said the site was too small for 139 units and questions on potential hazardous waste problems still exist. "I think the town had a good case," said Zollner.

The Ballard View project was one of most controversial of the seven comprehensive permits granted developers in Andover.

Neighbors packed town meetings to complain about sewer and drainage problems. Town officials also contended the site, abutting the Eastern Products rubber plant, needed further hazardous waste testing.

Glick maintained that an initial town-sponsored study analysis found the land was adequate.

"It must have been," said Glick yesterday. "After all, the comprehensive permit was approved by the town."
